PREFACE

The Manual of Procedure of the University of Iowa Roy J. and Lucille A. Notations shall be made of restrictions on departmental eligibility when appropriate. On the nominating ballot a faculty member may nominate one person for each vacant position. Up to twice as many nominees shall be chosen as there are vacancies. Those faculty members who receive sufficient votes to be nominated become the nominees upon consenting to run for the position. The election ballot shall contain up to twice as many names as there are vacant positions. Each voter may vote for as many names as there are positions to be filled. A voter may vote for fewer than this number but may not cast more than one vote for one person.
