Find a great mentor, they can be the secret to success.

Matthew Henry, Ph.D.

Assistant Dean for Preclinical Education
Associate Professor & Dept. Chair, Phys. & Pharm.
Des Moines University

My work can be described as 50/50. Half of my time I work on faculty type activities including teaching, service, and scholarship, with the bulk of that time dedicated to teaching. Half of my job is administrative. I serve as the department chair and more recently assumed the role of assistant dean within the College of Osteopathic Medicine. Here my primary functions focus on leading curricular improvements and supporting student progress. I have a great deal of variety in my day-to-day work, and the Pharmacology Graduate Program prepared me very well to be in my current position.

Completed PhD in Pharmacology: 2001
